Military Police Hospital (MPH)

17/04/2020

Refers to the technical and economic feasibility study for a Public-Private Partnership project for shared administrative management of the Military Police Hospital of Paraná.

The objective of the this hospital PPP project is to expand services provided by the MPH, especially the emergency and medical-hospital services, to use the total capacity of the available physical structure to demobilize policemen and military firemen unfit for public security activities and to administratively relieve the Military Police from activities aliened to public security, providing agility and efficiency in the management of the State's own hospital unit through a new management model.
